Let Your Wants be Known.

We shall issue the annual Fair Daily this year as in years past, and it is our aim to make this paper as interesting and as much of value to our advertisers as possible.

Have you not something you wish to advertise for sale? It makes no difference what the article may be, whether it be a house, a farm, furniture, cattle, horses, pigs or hens. There is someone looking for just those things and let them know about it and you will find a customer.

On the other hand you may be looking for some articles along different lines. Put an ad in the Fair Daily and see if you don't find the desired article.

We are told of a story which is absolutely true and which will well illustrate. A certain little boy in town was much interested in a carpentering performance which was going on upstairs in the house where he lived. A little while he ran upstairs and returned with a good piece of wood or moulding. His mother, noticing that he had good material, said to the little fellow, "Where did you get such good wood?" "Upstairs," was the reply. "I don't think you ought to have that. How did you get it?" "You ask the man for it," queried the mother. "Yes," replied the little fellow, "I was a twinkle in his eye, 'how do you suppose he knew I wanted it if I didn't ask for it.' The mother said no more while the carpenter laughed and returned the bundle of wood to the child.

Let your wants be known and someone will undoubtedly try to supply those wants. Try it in the Fair Daily, address advertiser office.

Camp Comes Notes.
Seldon C. Foster certainly delivered the goods, Sunday, when he appeared in his baker costume and started out on his way. Mr. Foster, we all thank you from the bottom of our hearts only you left an egg in one of the chicks. We hope it doesn't happen again.

Earl Shaw and Ralph Richardson were our guests while Roy White, who was slated, could not come on account of family troubles. His wife would not let him go. We were looking for him all day long but he did not come. A ball game was played between George W. Champtions and Walter Christian. The game lasted 16 innings and was called on account of darkness. Score was 5-5. Later in the day Mr. Christian came down town to engage in a bicycle race. William Danforth, Russell Bicknell and Walter Christian were the contestants.

They raced neck and neck over around South Paris, and just as Mr. Bicknell's wheel had crossed the railroad track he lost control. The wheel was going so fast that he hit a post and broke both forks. He was counted out.

Just as Mr. Christian got up to Mr. Bicknell's house on Paris street, in order to avoid running into a person as his wheel was going at breakneck speed, he swerved out into a banking and, thrown from the wheel and the front tire smashed in two.

A canoe race was held in front of camp. Mr. Lauen and Christian won by two lengths. Photograph selections were played. Everybody is rooting for Mr. Foster's return for another dinner.

Prof. John A. Nichols of Boston addressed a good sized audience last evening from the veranda of the Beal's House, on the fallacy of high license and local option. He turned the city of Boston, as well as the State, inside out, giving facts and figures. He has been a student of the liquor problem and is an expert on that line. He showed that while Massachusetts had what is called an ideal license law, it was an utter failure in every direction. Drunkenness has increased, all restrictions were disregarded, and it costs several times more to take care of the result of rum selling than it is to restrict license fees, not to mention the suffering of the poor. A license has to pay $2,800. Prof. Nichols is an eloquent speaker and held the closest attention of the crowd for one hour.

Deering Memorial Church Dedicated This Week.

The new Deering Memorial church, which has just been completed, is one of the finest churches in this part of the State. It is situated on the site of the former Methodist church, which until last summer has been in constant use for many years.

The church was made possible by the generosity of William Deering of Evansville, Ill., the well known wealthy manufacturer, who was a native of South Paris, and is a memorial to his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Deering, who were former members of the Methodist church.

In November, 1909, it was voted to build this church according to the provisions of Mr. Deering. The building committee included George F. Farnham, T. M. Davis, Dr. C. L. Buck, George W. Cook, Benjamin Swift, Ernest M. Millett, Granville Stuart and Thomas Powers. The finance committee chosen were Dr. C. L. Buck, Geo. L. Burnham, E. M. Millett, W. F. Starbird and Chandler Swift.

The old church was sold to A. F. Shortell and was removed from the lot in the summer of 1910, and work was immediately commenced on the new granite church. The granite used in the church came from a quarry near Bryant Pond, and is an even dark gray color. Bagley and Nicholas of Cleveland, Ohio, were the architects, and they made some very fine plans which have been carried out. E. A. Littlefield of Portland was the contractor on the construction work. The windows were put in by the Colonial Glass Co., of Boston. The memorial windows are in memory of Jerry H. Winslow, Lucetta M. Winslow and Nellie L. Winslow, Susan Dearborn Richards, William E. Cushman, Alvan Kloe, Israel B. Millett, Hiram Fulsler and Edward Howard Fulsler.

The decoration was in charge of Clarence of Monmouth, and the furniture, which is in oak, is from the Dittmar Furniture Co., of Williamsport, Pa. The new pipe organ is from the Estey Organ Co.

Sept. 20, 1910, the corner stone was laid by Rev. A. W. Pottle, a former pastor of the church, with appropriate services. The Methodists held services at the Baptist church during the winter and on the 11th day of June they went into the new church, where services have been held in the vestry since. The vestry is furnished in hard pine with dark stain. There are small vestries partitioned off by accordion doors for small groups. A well equipped kitchen is on the northwest corner, and a small vestry on the northeast corner, which has an entrance from outdoors under the entrance to the organ room.

The church is heated by Kelsey coal furnaces, which are placed in opposite ends of the building. The cost of the church, including the organ and furnishing, is nearly a total of $24,000.

On Wednesday afternoon ward held the dedication services at 2:30 o'clock. The new auditorium was filled and many from away were in attendance. The organ prelude was played by Mrs. Geo. L. Burnham followed by the doxology.

The opening address by the pastor, Rev. T. N. Kewley in well chosen words of welcome. The music was rendered by a double quartet including Mrs. Hermon Wilson and Hattie Leach, soprano; Mrs. Luella Smiley and Mrs. Agnes Morton, contralto; L. S. Sessions and Hubert Davis, tenor and J. Colley Harvey of Lewiston and Albert Dean.

Several beautiful selections were rendered and included, "I Have surely built Thee a house," "How beautiful thy dwellings," and "Oh! pray for the Peace of Jerusalem."

The first lesson was read by Rev. A. W. Pottle of Rumford and the second lesson by Rev. H. L. Nichols of Hebron. The sermon was delivered by Rev. F. C. Rogers of Portland. Mr. Rogers took for his text the 14th Psalm, where it says, "The fool hath said in his heart there is no God." In opening he defined the use and meaning of the word fool, which means a wicked and depraved person, not one with lack of intelligence. He said in part: "If there were no God this life would be vain, all the friendships, all the efforts for the betterment of mankind would be in vain and this world could be likened to a prison for its dark outlook. This idea is considered the dark thought of the world."

There has been no tribe of people but who have a supreme intelligence and have worshipped in some form or another, and in witness of this we have our temples and churches throughout all countries. There is a God and the bible is a means of interpretation of his words and thoughts to all people, and the three great vital questions of life have been answered, namely, if a man disobeys his legal and is answered by the resurrection of Christ. Is there forgiveness of sins, answered by the gift of our Saviour, and thirdly, "Shall we meet our loved ones again, answered by Christ through the scriptures."

On these facts we build and dedicate our churches. There is nothing too good to give to God and the noblest ideas should have the noblest expressions."

The building committee presented the building, and in due form it was dedicated by Rev. F. C. Rogers.

In the evening services were held conducted by Rev. F. A. Leitch, who gave a very interesting address on Methodism, its mission and what it has accomplished during the past year. The music was by the choir.

There will be an organ recital at the church, Thursday evening, by Claude Saunder of Boston, assisted by Mrs. Blanche A. Kilduff, a noted soprano, of Brookline, Mass. It is expected Leon Y. Yule, a cellist of Boston, will be present.

There will be services on Friday afternoon at 2:30 and in the evening a reception will be extended to former pastors.

Mrs. Davis Lovejoy attended the dedication of the new church and was the guest of sister, Mrs. Nellie Mahern, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Hathaway and son Donald, who have spent their vacation at Waterville, have returned. They are accompanied by Mrs. Hathaway's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wing, and her brother's wife, Mrs. Frank Wing, and daughter from Chicago spent several days with them.

To Ailing Women.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Norway.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the secretions when the kidneys are well, are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder become inflamed and swollen and worse troubles quickly follow. This is often the true cause of bearing down pains, lameness, backache, etc. Urine poison also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills, a remedy that has cured thousands of such cases. You will get better as the kidneys get better and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Norway woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Joseph A. Woods, Summer St., Norway, Me., says: "I am glad to say a word in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was annoyed for a long time by backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble. I tried many remedies but got no relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The contents of two boxes brought me great relief. I might add that Doan's Kidney Pills also cured my little son of weak kidneys." 34-35

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Our Presidents.

Washington first—he arranged the finances; then came John Adams who quarreled with France.

Thomas Jefferson, third, Louisiana he bought; James Madison, under whom England was fought.

James Monroe gave the doctrine and let in Missouri.

Then Adams, whose tariff aroused men to fury; Jackson, seventh, returned to the bank a new charter.

And made poor Van Buren to panic a martyr. William Harrison died and by Tyler was followed.

Under Polk all the troops in a bloody war followed.

Taylor, eleventh, had trouble with slavery. And Fillmore put through the Clay compromise bravely.

Then Pierce struggled through the Nebraska division.

And Buchanan was in for the Dred Scott decision.

Great Lincoln was wise in a time of depression. When Southern States fought for the right of Andrew Johnson came next, was impeached and acquitted.

Glynn S. Grant, two terms seemed fitted. Hayes followed, then Garfield, when Arthur Cleveland, who Congress by veto impeached.

McKinley then gave the tariff a send-up. And Cleveland again held the Democrats' end up.

McKinley waged war with the poor Spanish nation.

And Roosevelt came and upheld arbitration. William Taft has the chair until 1913.

And who then will follow remains to be seen.

What it Rains to Me.

It isn't raining rain to me, But cooling crystal drops; In every one of which I see A savior to my crops.

The clouds of black I love to see O'ershadowing the town; It isn't raining rain to me, It's raining blessings down.

It isn't raining rain to me, But beans and corn and wheat, Whose water, when it comes to me, Is melody most sweet.

See God's grace in every drop That beats against the pane; Shake hands, my friend, and join with me In blessings on the rain.

What it Rains to Me.

There isn't no use in you and I a whining. The sun's as bright as 'twixt in days of yore. The heart that spends the time in idly pinning, Whose water, when it comes to me, Is melody most sweet.

Auto Trip up the North Country.

We recently made a visit by auto, under the charge of F. H. Beck of Norway, to the big dam at Aziscoos Falls. The journey was through Greenwood, Bethel, Newry, Grafton and Upton. Dinner was taken at the Lakeside, which is one of the beauty spots in northern Maine.

This hotel has been managed by E. H. Davis for the past ten years and was filled to overflowing with summer guests. A stop was made at Screw Auger Falls and the wondrous work of water wearing upon rocks was examined. Here we met an auto party from Norway of five ladies who were being driven by Nate Noble. A lunch was served and we were invited to partake.

We arrived at the Aziscoos House, N. R. Leach, proprietor, at 3:40 in the afternoon, the last half hour being in the rain. The dam was inspected the next morning, and as Lewis Leavitt truthfully says, "It is a stupendous affair." We dare not give the length and height of it for fear we might get its dimensions wrong. It will hold sufficient water to make a lake considerably larger than Lake Umbagog, and it has been two years in the course of construction. There is, at the present time, 32 feet of water stored. It will take undoubtedly another year to have it fully complete, yet they can store the water coming from the fall and spring rains.

Dinner was taken at the Errol House and a run through the Dixville Notch, past the Balsams and to Colebrook. Mr. Hale at the Balsams has spent an ocean of money in beautifying nature and building fish ponds, roads, etc. It is stated that there were over 700 guests at the house. This place has been in course of construction fifteen years. Its manager, Mr. Gould, was originally a Bridgton man.

We were comfortably quartered at the Colebrook House, C. E. Hartsborn, proprietor. We left here at 9:30 in the forenoon and arrived home at 5:30 p. m. A picnic dinner was had this side of West Bethel.

BRYANT POND.

A day of Pleasure at D. O. Dudley's.
On Aug. 17, at the old homestead of D. O. Dudley, assembled forty-seven guests, some of whom had not met for years. Every branch of the family tree of Columbus Perham was represented but one.
There were Mrs. Marissa H. Potter of the house and children, three; Columbus
P. Kimball and wife of Berlin, N. H.; Etta M. Lamontagne and children, three;
of Piermont, N. H.; Myrtle Wilson of New Fane, Vt.; Marion Holden and grandmother of Paris; Jay Lamontagne of Piermont, N. H.; Martha K. Dudley and husband, also two children, Marguerite M. and Otis Dana Dudley; Myrtle Wilson's children, being great grandchildren of Mrs. Potter; Alfred O. Per-ham and wife of West Paris and family; Harold O. Ronald A. and Stanley J. Per-ham; Jutham Perham's children, Nelson, Gladys Beckler and Oarence Per-ham and wife and child; Gertrude Perham; G. W. Q. Perham and family;
Mildred O. and Edwin B. Perham; Leon Cushman and wife; Ida C. Spofford and family; Benj. T. Barlow; Ina May and Lester C. Brown and Joseph L. Spofford.
It was a lovely day. It seemed almost as if made for the occasion. Dinner was served in under the old apple trees and was enjoyed by all.
On August seventeenth we went far away
To the old Dudley homestead, so bright and so gay.
To see our relation assembled by dozens;
There were uncles and aunts; also nieces and cousins.
And also the nephews of them we will tell,
For we couldn't do without the dear boys very well.
Like strangers they seemed to some who were there.
For long years had passed since they'd met I dearly.
Acquainted they got with relation once more.
The dinner was plentiful and served out of doors.
To tempt their appetites, as other folks should.
They served up sandwiches lovely and good.
Then there was coffee, ice cream and cake.
The very best kind that they knew how to make.
And bright sparkling water from out of the spring.
And of all the drinks 'tis the very best thing.
'Twas served in the orchard upon the grass sweet.
And all the guests thought it a capital treat.
With candy and peanuts the day was well spent.
And they all went home well pleased and content.
Let us hope in the future that some day will
When the children will journey afar from their homes,
With their relation the day will be passed—
Like the one that is gone the too bright to last.

The Farmer Should Produce His Own Living.
One reason why the farmers of the last century always had money stored away in a bag behind the chimney, was that the farm was a factory in which almost everything in the home was produced, so that while the amount received for the crops was not so large as the returns of to-day, it was not necessary to pay it all out for subsistence.
Those were the days of large families, when it was common to find eight, ten or twelve strong, healthy boys and girls sitting at the table, each of them a contributor to the family fortune and many hands made light burdens.
It would pay us this generation to spin our own wool, weave our own cloth and knit our own stockings, but there is much we buy at the store and warehouse that we might produce more cheaply and of better quality at home. At how many farm homes does the child make soap with his aerated bread? If the farmer were to take his own wheat to the mill he would get wholesome flour and middles and also bran in return, and that would lessen his feed bill.
How often does the brother stop at the farmhouse with twenty-cent steaks, twenty-cent roasts and other cuts at proportionate rates? And yet the farmer by taking a little trouble could have his own meat the greater part of the year at probably a third the price he pays the butcher. If more hay were grown there would be smaller feed bills; and if the hogs were tightened on the old churn and a little time given to butter-making, it would not be necessary for the farmer to buy creamery butter at fifty cents a pound.

You don't want your husband to grow bald; you don't want your children to grow up with scant hair and scaly scalp.
You want lustrous hair for yourself and every member of your family.
Then always use Parisian Sage in your home. It is a delightful, refreshing hair dressing that kills dandruff, germs, ban-itching scalp and puts vigor and lustre

A Bouquet of Wild Flowers.

Gathered in 1910 by Gertrude I. Barrows.
Last year I kept account of the number of wild flowers found. The list is not remarkably long as no special effort was made to get a long list but only to identify all flowers which I found in my woodlands through fields and woods.
This was not as easy as might be supposed for in some cases it took a number of days at such odd minutes which I put in, to find the exact specie.
There are some common flowers which I failed to find; one was skunk cabbage, another closed gentian, both are rather rare and grow in wet places. There are

The company will play this town next summer in a new play and larger cast.

The "Vampire" Wife.

London Actress, Katherine Keeler, Presents Some Aspects of the Marriage Problem.

When a man should marry depends almost entirely on whether the girl is a vampire or not. For there are quite a few girls, not at all likely to be taken by their friends for "a rag and a bone and a bank of hair," who are really vampires. They draw the life blood out of the man who loves them by their continual demand for pleasure and gaiety.

It is, I suppose, the nature of a nice man to lavish presents, theatre tickets, and sweets on the girl he loves.

If these luxuries have become necessities to the girl, then she is a vampire. A girl, too, who demands every minute of a man's time, who upbraids him if he proposes to earn a little extra money by overtime, is a vampire.

And the girl who wants to live in style, to dazzle her friends and neighbors by her manner of entertaining, by the way she goes about to all the big events of the season, by her dresses and her servants and her taxicab, is a vampire. She is drawing the life-blood from his banking account.

But she is doing more than that. She cannot go about alone. Her husband must go with her always. He must put on evening dress after a heavy day at the office and dance attendance on her to a dinner-party or a ball.

His Saturdays that could be spent on the golf links or on the cricket field must be given up to visiting or being visited.

His Sunday afternoons, when he might be resting, are filled with a further round of calls.

At the time the vampire wife is draining the real life-blood from him by making him live at this double pressure.

With such girls a man is well advised to consider worldly comfort before romance, for the very good reason that the romance will not last.

There is another kind of vampire wife, the thriftless, shiftless girl.

In the days of her engagement she is always neat, prettily dressed and ready for him.

But he does not know that she never does a stroke of housework, that the prices of provisions are so much Greek to her, that she cannot even supervise the work of the cook, to say nothing of cooking herself.

She has no method, no idea of management, no ways of making ends meet, of saving expense, or of helping him in his struggle.

She may be the best-meaning little girl in the world, but she is none the less a vampire.

And where is either the romance or the worldly comfort of such a marriage?

Of course, the learned may refute my argument on this point with the wise words of Socrates in his "Oeconomicus."

"In the case of a wife, though instructed in good conduct by her husband, she manages badly, perhaps the wife deserves the blame." But if he does not teach her what is right and good, then would he not deserve the blame if he should find her ignorant of such things?

Yet where is the husband nowadays who could "teach her what is right and good" in household management?

It is the province of the girl's parents to see that she is taught. And mothers who neglect that duty, either from idleness, thoughtlessness, or a false pride which suggests that the girls should be rather instructed in painting, elocution and higher mathematics than in needlework, housework and cooking, are teaching their daughters to be vampires.

The vampire in real life is very often the little "dolly" woman, of a sweet, obliging nature. She accepts everything that is offered to her, and is destructive by the very weakness of her nature.

Of course, the saddest thing in life is that two people seldom love alike. They are attracted, but the love of one is always stronger than the love of the other. And how many times is the woman's love the stronger! She loves, and the man allows himself to be loved; that is a rule to which the only exceptions are the vampires.

Four Dozen States.

We now have four dozen States and no more in sight. All lands where the Stars and Stripes are in the Union, but this mathematical even dozens will be a good sacrifice anytime if the possibility should arise of dividing the State of New York.

So long as New York away the nation and Tammany Hall away New York and the salmon away Tammany Hall, Uncle Sam cannot afford to stick much of a feather in his cap.

What Shall Baby Eat?

With the growing appreciation of the fact that one of the chief causes of infant mortality is improper feeding, and that not only among the very poor, but among young mothers of the well-to-do class, the menus for babies that have just been prepared by the committee for the reduction of infant mortality of the New York milk committee—experts in child feeding—will doubtless be appreciated by mothers and nurses anxious to keep the little ones well. Peruna Secrets You Should Know

Golden Seal, the root of the above plant, is a very useful medicine. Many people gather it in our rich woodlands during the summer. Few people know how valuable it is in dyspepsia, catarrh, and as a general tonic.

Many thousands of pounds of this root are used each year in the famous catarrh remedy, Peruna. This fact explains why everybody uses Peruna for catarrh.

Prohibition Pointers.

How the saloon helps business in California.

In a communication, W. H. Clark of Salinas City, California, writes regarding the coming election for the repeal or retention of the prohibitory amendment.

"I learn there is an election coming in September and at this election your prohibitory law is to be sustained or overthrown. I am away off here in California, 3,000 miles from Maine, and might, perhaps, be excused from having any interest in the laws of Maine, but I am sure that there is not a temperance man in all our land who is not interested in having Maine stick to her prohibition in the liquor traffic. It would be a fearful discouragement to all temperance workers if Maine should let down the bars in favor of high license or any other regulation short of absolute prohibition.

"This is a small town, of about 4,000 inhabitants, and we have a licensed drinking place for about each 100 of our population. It is not surprising that with such a host of liquor dealers, they control our politics, our town and our country; we have three daily papers, but not one of them dare make any criticism of the law defying the saloon. We have made desperate struggles to overcome the whisky power, but have had little success. We are earnestly seeking for good people to come into our neighborhood and settle, but such people avoid this place as though we had a plague; they say, 'You clean up and then we will settle with you,' but we can't clean up without help, and the fact that a state like Maine has found her prohibitory law good and still stand by it is a great help to all struggling places as ours."

A word from the Federation of Labor. Daily we hear from the advocates of license that the saloon under the protection and sanction of the law would be a benefit to conditions among the laboring man and wage earners. John B. Lennon, treasurer of the American Federation of Labor said, however, at a recent speech at Des Moines, Iowa:

"We have never been the mainstay of the liquor traffic on the North American continent, but thank God, they are going to knock it out. The saloon does not produce a thing which is a benefit to the human race. It is a non-producer and must be supported by those who work. Every man and woman should be against the liquor traffic from start to finish. I am speaking to the wage earners, but it may be applied to everybody.

"Have you ever considered the effects of the liquor traffic on children? Did you know that they are driven to toil by 'booze' when they should be at the schoolhouse? The children of the parents whose money goes over the bar to work at immature ages. The offspring of the man and woman addicted to liquor is forced into the industrial world long before the children of the other class. After the saloon is put out of business, figures show that the attendance at the schools increases from five to twenty per cent., sixty days after the doors are closed. There is also a greater regularity of attendance. Education is neglected when the saloon is present. The saloon wants people to remain ignorant. It is upon ignorance that the liquor traffic thrives. Liquor is not for educational development. Do you want to stand for the continuance of ignorance?

"The working man is beginning to understand that when he patronizes the saloon he is helping maintain an institution which brings him no returns. There is nothing in the saloon which tends toward better manhood or womanhood.

Endorse Prohibition.

The school superintendents of Maine held lively session at Castine. Resolutions were adopted on prohibition as follows:

"Whereas the present non-political campaign concerning the temperance question, we regard as one of the most important issues ever presented to the citizens of a free commonwealth and,

"Whereas, we, the superintendents of schools, share in a large measure the responsibility for promoting the physical, mental and moral interest of the boys and girls soon to be the men and women who will control the policy of the State.

"Resolved, That without regard to our political or religious affiliations, we thoroughly believe that the material interest of the State will be best subserved and the highest welfare of the present and future generations will be best secured by continuing, enforced, the present prohibitory amendment.

I recently met a farmer who said that a man came to him and asked him to sign a petition for a saloon, and he refused on the ground that they did not treat the saloonkeeper fairly. The man asked him what he meant, and the following dialogue ensued: "You want to start a saloon in this town?" "Yes." "To improve business?" "Yes." "To increase trade?" "Yes." "Well, now, if you are going to do all that good for this town, I think they ought to give you a subsidy instead of putting a tax upon you." If the saloon is such a good thing for a town, why is it we treat it as we do? Why do we require the would-be saloon keeper to secure a petition? Why do we tell him when to open and close, and how many chairs he can keep in the room, and require him to give bond for all the damage done? Can you not see some difference between the saloons and other lines of business, and does not this difference justify different treatment?—William Jennings Bryan.

The Fairs are On.

The fairs are on and should be attended by every man who wants to break down the rule of habit and get free from the shackles of supreme selfishness. Nothing does a man so much good as to see that another man is going so much better than he, nothing opens one's eyes so wide as to be brought face to face with what enthusiasts are doing.

Every man needs this jolt at least once a year to start the mental machinery and sprout some fresh ideas. We grow by doing, but our inspiration comes by seeing, and so the manufacturers of choice blooded stock, or the best farm products, to keep away from a dead level must get away from his immediate surroundings and seek the environment of others.

Catch a glimpse of the picture from the standpoint of the other fellow.

We believe in these agricultural fairs as educators and in order that they may do their work men must attend and see things. This would be a sorry place if we did not see things, for there would be no growth, no improvement. So we say take a day or more and go to the fair, one of the large fairs at a town on your own local fair.

We have met about the fairs or horse trots but get outside of yourself, friend, and drink in the lessons presented in every direction. Let them sift into the gray matter of your brains that there is a better way than you have found, and then go back home to find it.

None of us have grasped the whole meaning of the fairs, but caught a passing glimpse of the realities just over the wall in the other fellow's garden, orchard, pasture, pen or tie-up.

Find these things at the fairs and then go to the home, friend, to prepare to lead the procession next year in some one direction. The fairs came in answer to a demand, they exist because that has not yet been fully met, they will be with us because the object lesson will always be an educator.

Make the fairs clean, helpful, inspiring, but my friend go to see the good things, the beneficial things, and let all else pass unnoticed.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a brick dust sediment, or setting, stringy or milky appearance often indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back are also symptoms that tell you the kidneys and bladder are out of order and need attention.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills almost every wish in correcting rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. Corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. If you need a remedy, you should have the best. Sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Mention this paper and remember name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.
